ANNEX 1. EGI FOUNDATION

The Stichting EGI (also known as the EGI Foundation and abbreviated as EGI.eu) is a not-for-profit foundation established under the Dutch law to coordinate the EGI federation (abbreviated as EGI), an international collaboration that federates the digital capabilities, resources and expertise of national and international research communities in Europe and worldwide. The main goal is to empower researchers from all disciplines to collaborate and to carry out data- and compute-intensive science and innovation.

The EGI Foundation has participants and associated participants drawn from representatives of national e-infrastructure consortiums (NGIs), EIROs, ERICs, and other legal entities. These entities provide the physical resources and shared services that enable EGI to deliver, improve and innovate services for communities. The EGI Foundation coordinates areas such as overseeing infrastructure operations, user community support, contact with technology providers, strategy and policy development, flagship events and dissemination of news and achievements.

The EGI Federation – coordinated by EGI.eu – is one of the largest distributed computing infrastructure for researchers. It leverages the local investments of national research funding agencies by bringing together hundreds of data centres worldwide. It also includes the largest research cloud federation in operations in Europe with tens of participating cloud providers across most of the European countries offering IaaS cloud and storage services.

The EGI offering includes a federated IaaS cloud to run compute- or data-intensive tasks and host online services in virtual machines or docker containers on IT resources accessible via a uniform interface; high-throughput data analysis to run compute-intensive tasks for producing and analysing large datasets and store/retrieve research data efficiently across multiple service providers; federated operations to manage service access and operations from heterogeneous distributed infrastructures and integrate resources from multiple independent providers with technologies, processes and expertise offered by EGI; consultancy for user-driven innovation to assess research computing needs and provide tailored solutions for advanced computing.

The EGI Cloud Federation aggregates resources by defining a set of standard open-source interfaces and protocols to access the different cloud functions - such as resource discovery, user authentication, compute and data access services - in a uniform way at all the sites, enabling workloads to span and seamlessly migrate across resource centers. Through the EGI Virtual Machine image library – the Application Database – EGI offers the possibility to share and reuse virtual appliances and to dynamically deploy them in a federated cloud infrastructure. Besides cloud compute and storage services, the cloud will offer the capability of accessing open datasets of public and commercial relevance for scalable access to big research data, fostering a culture and environment for sharing and reuse of open research data. EGI supports the implementation and adoption of cloud open standards.

The EGI technical platforms are co-developed with research communities and technology providers. In order to do so, EGI has established processes and technical infrastructures for requirements gathering, software validation, verification and distribution through the Unified Middleware Distribution.

Over the last decade, EGI has built a federation of long-term distributed compute and storage infrastructure that has delivered unprecedented data analysis capabilities to tens of thousands of researchers from many disciplines (e.g., Medical and Health Sciences, Natural Sciences, Engineering and Technology, Agricultural Sciences, and Art and Humanities).

Examples of the supported research include the search for the Higgs boson at the Large Hadron Collider particle accelerator at CERN; the search for gravitational waves of the LIGO-VIRGO collaboration, finding new tools to diagnose and monitor diseases such as Alzheimer's, or the development of complex simulations to model climate change.

Further information (e.g. governance; services) can be found at: www.egi.eu/about/

ANNEX 2. GRENA

The Georgian Research and Educational Networking Association GRENA is a not-for-profit association established in 1999 under the Georgian law for the development of Information Technologies (IT) in education and research field. The founders of GRENA are five major universities, Georgian National Academy of Sciences and Open Society Georgia Foundation.

The main fields of GRENA activities are following:

- Providing Information Technology services to users and implementation of new, innovative services.
- IT education.
- Preparation and implementation of research and technology projects.
- Promoting and supporting IT development in Georgia.

Implementation of new services and development of projects is being carried out in close cooperation with universities with the support of European Commission, NATO Science for Peace and Security Programme, National Science Foundation of Georgia, International Science & Technology Center and other organizations.

GRENA provides IT services using its own infrastructure and different technologies to more than 150 organisations in Georgia. GRENA owns fibre-optic network infrastructure connecting Georgian research and education institutions and has a high capacity link to GEANT, which is necessary for integration in European e-infrastructures.

At present GRENA datacentre based on following infrastructure:

1. Cloud platform based on OpenNebula – 60 Core, 512 GB RAM
2. Virtualization platform based on Proxmox – 268 Core, 3.4 TB RAM

Software defined storage CEPH is used as a storage solution.

Currently upgrade of our infrastructure by replacing old servers with new ones and changing cloud platform from OpenNebula to OpenStack is in progress.

In September 2020 the following infrastructure will be available:

1. Cloud based on Openstack with our custom interface - 136 Core, 3.2 TB RAM
2. Virtualization platform based on Proxmox – 368 Core, 9 TB RAM

GRENA cloud infrastructure is being used by research applications in weather forecast, climate modeling, DNA mutation and e-health. As an example of successful cooperation between the National Science Foundation of Georgia and GRENA, three projects of the foundation are using GRENA cloud facility. The main objectives of the projects are development of high resolution regional climate ensemble prediction system in order to obtain more detailed climate change predictions and to ensure more accurate information on extreme events over the territory of Georgia. Research teams from Tbilisi State University, National Environmental Agency and Geoscience and Technology Developments Institute are implementing the above mentioned projects in tight cooperation with GRENA.

In the framework of European Commission NI4OS-Europe project GRENA also supports National Science Library in creation of national research information system, repository that will collect Georgia's research output (publications, theses, etc.) and researchers' profiles.

More information about GRENA activities and services can be found at: <https://www.grena.ge/>

ANNEX 3. JOINT WORK PLAN

To support the collaboration objectives defined in article Article 2 (“Purpose and scope”), a joint work plan is defined and will be regularly reviewed and updated at least annually.

The Parties will jointly deliver e-infrastructure services and support the needs of global scientific communities. The cooperation is focused, but not limited to the following areas:

1. Coordinated offering of cloud resources and user support for open science via EGI and European Open Science Cloud (EOSC).
2. Exchange applications and scientific datasets that facilitate open science with e-infrastructures.
3. Exchange information about the impact of e-infrastructure services and offerings on science and showcase these at relevant events.

Joint Activity 1. Coordinated delivery of cloud and user support

- Catalogue/onboard the GRENA Cloud in the EOSC Cloud catalogue, indicating its availability for Georgian researchers and international projects with Georgian members.
- Integrate the GRENA Cloud with the EGI Check-in service to enable single sign-on across the EOSC Portal, Marketplace and the cloud itself, and to comply with the EGI Security Policies.
- Deliver user support and training for national and international communities based on matching interest and skills. Specific focus will be on weather forecast, climate change, seismology, etc.

Duration 12 months

Joint Activity 2. Exchange applications and data

EGI will support GRENA to connect with the content distribution services of the EGI Cloud, particularly to

- Connect the GRENA Cloud with the EGI AppDB Virtual Machine Image Marketplace to enable the staging of Virtualized applications and tools to the GRENA Cloud for the benefit of Georgian researchers.
- Connect the GRENA Cloud to the EGI DataHub to enable the replication of scientific datasets to the GRENA Cloud for the benefit of Georgian researchers.
- Share relevant Georgian applications and datasets with EGI and EOSC users via the EGI AppDB and DataHub.
- Facilitate cross-infrastructure data processing and analytics workflows as demanded by user communities.

Duration 18 months

Joint Activity 3. Impact of e-infrastructure services

EGI and GRENA will align and connect their customer relationship management (CRM) process

- to share EGI and EOSC user feedback and to feed this into their continuous improvement processes.
- To share success stories, to prepare joint articles, publications, presentations and demonstrations and to present/distribute these at high impact events and through EGI and GRENA dissemination channels.

Duration 36 months
