The present Service Level Agreement (“the Agreement”) is made between EGI Foundation (the Service Provider) and IceCube Neutrino Observatory/vo:icecube (the Customer) to define the provision and support of the provided services as described hereafter. Representatives and contact information are defined in Section 6.

IceCube¹ is the world’s premier facility to detect neutrinos with energies above approximately 10 GeV. It is a pillar for NSF’s MMA program, one of the top 10 NSF priorities. The detector is located at the geographic South Pole, and was completed at the end of 2010. It is designed to detect interaction of neutrinos of astrophysical origin by instrumenting over a gigaton of polar ice with 5,160 optical sensors. The sensors are buried between 1,450 and 2,450 meters below the surface of the South Pole ice sheet in a hexagonal grid. The project is a recognized CERN experiment (RE10).

The IceCube collaboration² has discovered extremely energetic neutrinos from the cosmos and initiated a joint neutrino-electromagnetic emission MMA observation which found the first confirmed high-energy astrophysical neutrino point source from the active galactic nucleus TXS 05060+056. This former discovery was recognized as the Physics World Breakthrough of the Year Award for 2013. The latter made IceCube one of the pillars on which the NSF is building an MMA program that has been declared a high-level priority area for the future.

The Customer is a consortium represented by the University of Wisconsin-Madison³.

The Component providers are delivering a part of the Service(s) and are listed in Section 1.

This Agreement is valid from 01/01/2022 to 30/06/2023.

The Agreement was discussed and approved by the Customer and the Provider on 01/07/2022.
